

Long vigil at tragic fire at 1365-75 E. 70th is kept by the family of Battalion Chief Thomas Hoff, killed when building's floors collapsed. His wife Eleanor (right) rushed to the scene after hearing the news on the radio. Wrecking equipment was needed to remove debris before fireman's body was recovered. Clutching his dad's helmet, Tom Hoff (left) wears a borrowed coat as he waits for the removal of his father's body. (Sun-Times Photos)